

INFRASTRUCTURE INVESTOR AWARDS 2015

North America energy investor of the year
ArcLight Capital Partners

FROM RAISING $5.6 BILLION for its sixth flagship fund to investing in renewables, establishing a new partnership and exiting previous investments, ArcLight Capital Partners has had a busy and productive year.

The Boston-based private equity firm that focuses exclusively on energy and energy infrastructure kicked off 2015 by selling the Bayonne Energy Centre, a 512-megawatt gas-fired power generating facility, for $720 million to Macquarie Infrastructure Company. Other divestments followed, such as that of gas pipeline developer NET Midstream and Michigan Power LP.

But 2015 wasn't just about realising investments, it was also about making new acquisitions. Last April, the firm acquired Pyramid, owner and operator of 12 high-quality refined products storage terminal facilities in Pennsylvania, totalling approximately 9 million barrels of storage capacity.

Later in the year, ArcLight invested alongside North Sea Midstream Partners, to acquire the Frigg UK Pipeline, the Shetland Island Regional Gas Export System pipelines as well as the St Fergus Gas Terminal in the UK's North Sea.

It also expanded its clean energy portfolio, acquiring 18 US wind farms with a total capacity of more than 1,000 megawatts from Australia's Infigen Energy. The acquisition was made through Leeward Renewable Energy, a newly formed portfolio company that will serve as a platform for future renewables acquisitions.
